
From: Scott, Robert L. (DHHS)
Sent: Monday, January 04, 2016 2:13 PM
To: Garcia, Deborah (DHHS)
Subject: FW: NPR.org - High Lead Levels In Michigan Kids After City Switches Water Source

From: Brown, Mary Jean (CDC/ONDIEH/NCEH) [<mailto:mjb5@cdc.gov>]
Sent: Wednesday, September 30, 2015 3:34 PM
To: Scott, Robert L. (DCH) <ScottR9@michigan.gov>
Subject: FW: NPR.org - High Lead Levels In Michigan Kids After City Switches Water Source

Here you go

From: Blake, Robert G. (CDC/ONDIEH/NCEH)
Sent: Wednesday, September 30, 2015 10:13 AM
To: Brown, Mary Jean (CDC/ONDIEH/NCEH)
Subject: FW: NPR.org - High Lead Levels In Michigan Kids After City Switches Water Source

From: NPR [<mailto:email@et.npr.org>]
Sent: Wednesday, September 30, 2015 9:33 AM
To: Blake, Robert G. (CDC/ONDIEH/NCEH) <emn9@cdc.gov>
Subject: NPR.org - High Lead Levels In Michigan Kids After City Switches Water Source

emn9@cdc.gov has sent you the following story: High Lead Levels In Michigan Kids After City Switches Water Source

Rob thought you would be interested in this story

Message: fyi

High Lead Levels In Michigan Kids After City Switches Water Source

Flint, Mich., started drawing its tap water from a local river in April 2014. The water is so corrosive that it's causing lead to leach out of aging pipes, resulting in serious health issues.

Read this story

This email was sent by: NPR, 1111 N. Capitol St. NE Washington, DC, 20002, United States.
This message was sent to rgblake@cdc.gov.