Greetings:

Below is a link to the lead service line webpage that is now on R5's website. It has information for consumers on what a lead service line is and how to reduce exposure to lead, including flushing recommendations based on our Lead Study.

 Subject: Lead Sampling Protocol Study

Hello all: The R5 Lead Sampling Protocol Study paper is up on Environmental Science & Technology's website as a "Just Accepted Manuscripts" where they post papers online prior to technical editing and formatting for publication.

Detection and Evaluation of Elevated Lead Release from Service Lines: A Field Study

We will be putting up a lead service line webpage soon which will include ways consumers can reduce their lead exposure. I'll let you know when it goes live.
