More fun in Flint. I didn't read the article, but if it's a summer protest, then I hope they remember to keep hydrated and drink plenty of water.

Not sure if you all heard about this water march from Detroit to Flint. There's a short article on Mlive plus I see that a San Francisco and Seattle paper (and other national periodicals) have picked it up.

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Critics of water shutoffs in Detroit and water quality problems in Flint are holding a 70-mile protest march between the two southeastern Michigan cities.

Here's the group that might be sponsoring it...
