Very nice summary. The heading for WQ Guidelines needs to be bumped to the next line and I agree with Eden that we should put water issues to the top of the list under Reducing and Removing Lead Exposure. Could we also revise the 3rd sentence in that bullet to read:

"The lead in household water usually comes from the service line that connects your house to the water main or the plumbing in your house, not from the local water supply."

Lead service lines are the biggest lead contributor and are owned in part by the water supply, so it's incorrect to lay all the blame on household plumbing.

Thanks Angela...I have saved your version of the report to work from in the future...There will likely continue to be changes to the formatting so we add more data but I'll be sure to keep the logo on it.

I have attached some of my suggestions for the talking points. These going to be updated, I assume with the new data on the report? There are a lot. And I do want to explain why Sug/dL is our significant cut-off any way. In the talking points or are the people not want them, pretty well covered in the ways of lead by now?

Importance: High

Good morning,

Attached is an updated report that includes the MLHHS logo. Because that's been added in I had to change the format a bit so when updating this report please forward it please use this version.

Additionally, I've attached updated talking points for Flint which include points regarding the importance of the Flint water. Please review these and let me know if there are any concerns.

Thank you,

Angela
