Yes, we can show tests by week and cumulative.

"This week" refers to the work week ending Friday, 10/23/15. Every Friday (ideally), we process all records received for the week—adding them to the CLPPP database and sending them to the MDHHS Data Warehouse.

Can we show number of tests by week and cumulative?

When you say "tests processed this week" = 405, what week are you referring to?

I can do it. How about this?

- 1) Total number of children tested since 9/28/15 press conference.
- 2) Total number of children with capillary EBLLs since 4/1/14 water change, still needing confirmation.
- 3) Total number of confirmed EBLL cases since 4/1/14.
- 4) Total number of children with capillary EBLLs since 9/28/15, needing confirmation.
- 5) Total number of confirmed EBLL cases since 9/28/15.

Hi Bob, my only thought on this is can we include something on each page that has a cumulative number of tests done, and number of EBLL cases?
