Dave,

Thanks. Of the numbers tested, could you get me the following info:

- 1) The total tested through the hospitals?
 - 2) Of those tested through the hospitals, how many were under 16?
 - 3) Of the kids under tested through the hospitals, how many showed higher levels of lead?
- Finally, 4) Of the total numbers tested, how many were Medicaid recipients?

I know it's a lot, but this will help us better explain results should the hospitals release its own data. Also, this will help us how to better target awareness information for more residents to get tested.

Best,

Hi Harvey,

I checked with DHHS. The department's data includes information from the two hospitals. But, the hospitals could in theory issue their own release using just their own tests.
