Can you give me some details of the things that you think are wrong? We always want to know about mistakes or errors.

Also, I asked you last week to comment on the situation -- still interested in hearing what you are doing to respond to the water situation in Flint, which has resulted in an increasing number of children with elevated blood-lead levels. We're doing a follow-up, and would love to know what specifically the governor's office is doing.

I'm still in disbelief and simmering to be quite frank over that column, Nancy. That was fairly unbelievable - 'resounding yawn'? Seriously? You picked and chose facts and components to weave together a set narrative, leaving out so many critical pieces of all the state, Governor and administration have done to help the city and its residents in this situation.

There has been and there will be more that we're doing on this front -- again do everything possible to play a supportive role and work in collaborative fashion across all levels of government, with the community, faith and business leaders, and residents. Protecting public health is paramount and safe, clean, accessible drinking water is essential. That's what we solely focused on helping ensure.

Back in touch later.

Any updates/changes on plans to handle the Flint water situation?
