WWJ's Zahra Huber spoke with Professor Marc Edwards from Virginia Tech regarding his thoughts on the Flint Water situation as the lead researcher on the project and he had very harsh words about how the Flint Water situation had been handled. He said federal laws had been broken when the switch was made away from the Detroit River to the Flint River and that data was manipulated to show that Flint water was safe when it was not. Can we get a comment from the Governor on this interview? I've attached the audio, uncut, for you to listen to for comment.

Let us know. Thanks!
